Vance Arnold has joined investment consulting firm Robert Harrell Incorporated as a senior consultant, RHI Senior V.P. Will Harrell said, in an e-mail.

Arnold will be primarily responsible for serving the firm's growing institutional base in a consulting capacity and sitting on RHI's investment committee, Harrell said, noting he began in the position on Oct. 8.

The new hire stems from the firm's growth trajectory demanding the addition of advisors with institutional consulting backgrounds, Harrell added.

In recent years, Arnold worked in securities analysis, asset allocation, portfolio management, management of a small/mid-cap equity mutual fund and institutional sales with a client base consisting of foundations/endowments, pension plans and Taft Hartley plans, among others, and prior to that had a 30-year career at Frost Investment Advisors, according to Harrell.

"Vance brings decades of institutional investment consulting expertise to the firm, and we are excited he is on the team," Harrell said, in a statement. "His depth of knowledge and experience serving institutions in a fiduciary capacity dovetail perfectly with our firm's mission and culture."
